InfiNet Consulting Changes Name to InfiNet Computer Solutions Inc.

Name Change Reflects Company's Commitment to its Core Business and New Service Offerings

FORT COLLINS, CO—InfiNet Computer Solutions Inc., formerly known as InfiNet Consulting, has added to its growing list of services, truly becoming the number one computer solution provider for small to mid size companies along Colorado's Front Range.

"We've always had strong working relationships with our clients," says Tad Osborn, President, InfiNet Computer Solutions. "The desire to fill their needs has led us to expand our service offerings. We've now added the final few services, such as 24-hour monitoring of mission critical systems and wireless network systems to make us a complete computer solution company. Now, businesses can make one phone call and answer all of their computer needs."

InfiNet Computer Solutions helps companies expand market share and increase revenues with cutting-edge digital technology. The company prides itself on bridging the gap between technology and the user by providing all of the latest computer options, after thoroughly studying an organization's business goals and objectives.

InfiNet has unveiled a new logo and launched a new Web site along with its new name and expanded service offerings. The site, www.infinetinc.com, provides a plethora of information for computer users. Also, in celebration of its new name and Website, InfiNet is giving away a free Wireless Network system including a broadband router, wireless PC card, and one hour of consulting to set up the system. The total prize value is over $230. The prize is open to any Colorado business. The drawing date is April 29, 2004. Please visit www.infinetinc.com to register for a chance to win this cutting edge wireless system.
